Ships Crash, Burn In N.Y. Harbor; 20 Die, 12 Are Missing

NEW YORK (AP) — The sun filtered through the clouds onto the busy ship traffic in the Kill Van Kull Channel in New York Harbor. Then in an instant of screeching metal and searing flames, the channel became a sea of fire and death.

The Coast Guard counted at least 20 dead today in the collision of two tankers, one empty, the other laden with volatile naphtha. Of the 101 crewmen on the tankers and two escorting tugs caught in the flames, the Coast Guard listed 12 as missing, with 69 survivors, 40 of them hospitalized.

Witnesses said one of the tugs exploded, igniting naphtha leaking from the British tanker Alva Cape after its collision Thursday with the Texaco Massachusetts, an American tanker heading back for the Gulf of Mexico after discharging its cargo in New York.

The Texaco Massachusetts, built in 1963, is 604 feet long with a deadweight of 25,413 tons. The Alva Cape, 546 feet long, was built in 1953. Its deadweight is 11,232 tons.

Crewmen from both ships and the tugs clambered overboard only to find the water a boiling sea of flame from the burning naphtha.

Crewmen Heroes
Coast Guard and police rescuers in boats and helicopters plucked survivors from the sea. There were tales of heroism among the crewmen.

"There was a man in every man," said Alfonso Colon, 36, chief pumpman of the Texaco Massachusetts, describing the behavior of the men in the fiery water.

Colon told of one unidentified crewman who "took off his own life belt and gave it to somebody else. Then he kept swimming from one man to another and helped them to the buoy."

Colon said his ship struck the Alva Cape and "cut through them like a knife."

"Then naphtha started to pour out of the Cape," Colon said. "Nothing serious would have happened but one of our tugs was straining so hard to avoid the accident that it blew up."

Abandon Ship

"There was a flare of fire out of the engine room. I ran down to the stern of my ship. I saw the skipper, who told us to abandon ship."

The Coast Guard said the tug, the Esso Vermont, apparently exploded when the naphtha — a petroleum distillate — washed over its engines. Eight of the Esso Vermont's nine-man crew were reported missing. One was rescued.

The cause of the collision remained a subject for Coast Guard investigation, which began immediately.

Identification Sketches

Identification of the bodies, slowly being collected in morgues, was sketchy. A police official in Bayonne, N.J., said one of the dead was Capt. Richard F. Pinder of Clarksboro, N.J., skipper of the Texaco Massachusetts.

The Coast Guard said the Alva Cape, carrying 4.2 million gallons of naphtha into New York, was under charter to Esso, though managed by a British company and flying a British flag.

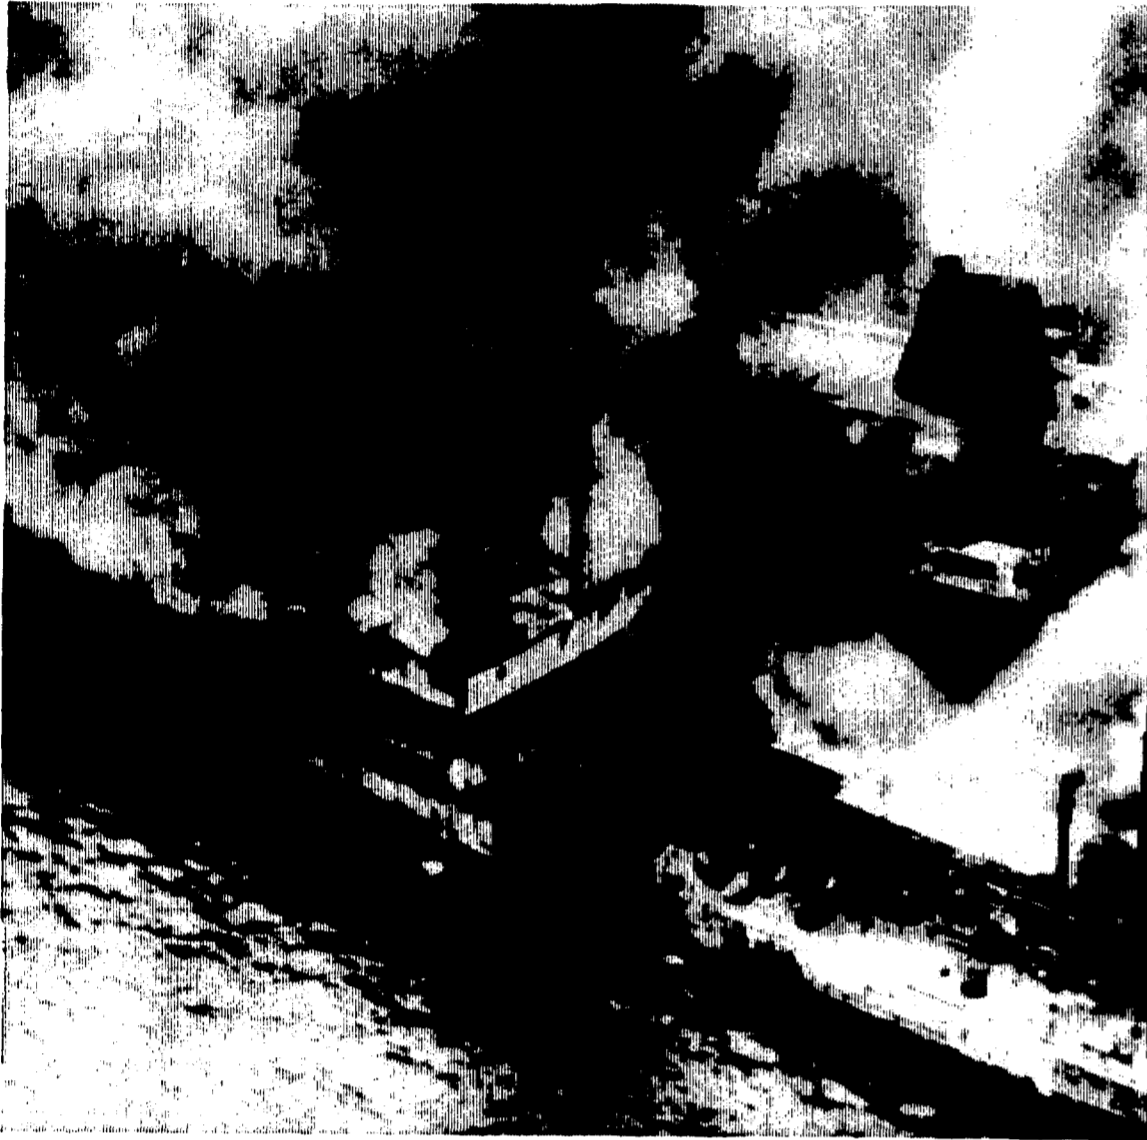

It collided with the Texaco Massachusetts at a spot where the Kill Van Kull is about 2,000 feet wide, at the entrance to Newark Bay. The Coast Guard said a crewman reported the two ships exchanged whistle blasts before the collision and the Alva Cape had dropped anchor.

Each vessel was accompanied by a tug. The tug with the American ship, the Jatin American, also caught fire.

Several survivors reported that after they had leaped into the water a wind arose and swept back the spreading flames.

"That's how God helped us," said Colon. "The wind blew the fire away from every one of us. Then a police boat came by and picked us up."

Lightning Fire Rages Wild In Arizona Forest

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) —

Fires raged out of control in the Tonto and Coronado national forests late Thursday with new ones being reported at the rate of nearly one an hour.

Eleven new lightning-caused fires were reported in southern Arizona as the parched brush and forest ranges offered prime fuel to the spreading blazes.

The largest blazes, however, were in the Tonto Forest, where up to 5,000 acres were razed.

A U.S. Forest Service spokesman said 550 men, including Indian fire fighters, were battling the fires in the Superstition Mountain area.

L. B. Christianson, a Forest Service official, said three fires in the Catalina Mountains near Tucson were "potentially hazardous."

The U.S. Weather Bureau has forecast thunderstorms and gusty winds for most of the fire areas.

In California, the forecast of moist marine air buoyed fire fighters hopes of containing the 90,000-acre brush fire in Los Padres National Forest by Saturday night.

Soviets Agree On Peace For Space Travels

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union disclosed today the text of its proposed treaty to guarantee a peaceful exploration of the moon and outer space.

On several points the Soviet draft agreed with a proposed treaty which the United Nations submitted to the United Nations Thursday.

A major difference concerned sharing of the findings of space research.

The U.S. draft contained a specific proposal that a country conducting activities on a celestial body shall report them to the U.N. secretary-general and give the findings to the public in the international scientific community.

The Soviet draft had no such provision.

Both the Soviet and U.S. drafts are proposed for consideration at the next session of the U.N. General Assembly.

The two drafts agreed on these major points:

The moon and celestial bodies are open for exploration and use by all countries.

They are not subject to national appropriation.

Such bodies should be used for peaceful purposes only.

Nuclear and other weapons of mass destruction and other military fortifications should not be established on or near celestial bodies.

A country retains ownership of stations or vehicles it puts on a celestial body.

Nationalism Is Tearing World Alliances Down

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Resurgent nationalism threatens today to frustrate efforts of both the United States and the Soviet Union to keep their alliances intact and threatens in the long run to shatter the concept of big military blocs.

In both the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Warsaw Pact, pressures of national interests are producing rips in the fabrics of what once were tightly knit associations.

Because of the problems of the two greatest powers, each with its own restless and balky allies, long-entrenched ideas about cold war are being seriously challenged.

A jolt to NATO, produced by President Charles de Gaulle of France, and the increasingly wide chasm between the Soviet Union and Communist China are opening doors to free-wheeling diplomacy by the allies of both big powers.

For many years after World War II, Europe was the main front of a cold war between the United States and the U.S.S.R. Now, in the background, is an emergent China, historically contemptuous of all foreigners, developing rapidly into a military-nuclear power. Before long, China may control the balance between war and peace.

This is giving an entirely new look to the cold war, so far as Europe is concerned. Statesmen today are reflecting that the real threats to peace in the future are not going to be inside Europe, but outside, in the hungry, underdeveloped nations of Asia and Africa.

Resigns Post

DETROIT (AP) — Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh announced the resignation Thursday of Jerry Moore from the Civic Center Commission, Moore, managing director of the Fort Shelby Hotel, said ill health had forced him to maintain a limited schedule.

Johnson Says U.S. Is Ready To Talk Peace

Meany Defeats Reuther In Foreign Policy Clash

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany is

winner and still champion of the big labor federation after a bitter clash with Walter P. Reuther over foreign policy.

Wielding words like a plumbline's wrench, Meany Thursday denied Reuther's charges that the AFL-CIO was undermining President Johnson's efforts to "build bridges" of understanding to the Communist world.

"A damnable lie," "contemptible" and "slandering" ex-plumber Meany fumed at Auto Workers President Reuther and his brother, Victor.

The Reuther brothers attacked Meany for boycotting the International Labor Organization after it elected a Communist president; charged that the AFL-CIO was allowing itself to be used as a front by the Central Intelligence Agency and using its influence to block State Department visas to Communists in some exchange programs.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council gave Meany an 18-6 vote of confidence after hours of wrangling in a closed session which one member described as a "horrible" exchange of "invektives."

Meany said at a news conference afterward that he had talked to both President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk after AFL-CIO delegates walked out of the Geneva conference of the ILO when Leon Chajn of Communist Poland was elected president.

Neither Johnson nor Rusk asked him to order the U.S. labor delegates back, Meany said, and emphasized the AFL-CIO would continue to work in the ILO and try to "save it" from a Communist takeover.

Walter Reuther replied mildly through an aide that he was "happy to hear the AFL-CIO will not pull out of the ILO."

Marcher Head Leads Demand: 'Black Power'

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP) — "We want black power! We want black power!" the 1,000 Negroes chanted it again and again.

On the back of a truck, facing them on a lighted baseball field Thursday night, stood Stokely Carmichael, head of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee. He and two others in the Mississippi march had just come from seven hours in jail.

"Everybody owns our neighborhood except us," Carmichael roared. "We outnumber the whites in this county; we want black power. That's what we want. Black power!"

Carmichael's speech climaxed the most troubled day of the march since James H. Meredith, the first Negro known to have graduated from the University of Mississippi, was shot and wounded June 6.

Rusk Prepared To Go If Reds Want Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says the United States stands ready to discuss peace prospects for Viet Nam "anytime, anywhere, with any government."

Thumping the podium with his fist for emphasis, the President departed Thursday from his prepared speech to a group of legislative leaders in the White House rose garden to reiterate U.S. willingness for peace talks.

"All they have to do to test us is to name the place and date; they will find us there," Johnson said. "But you can't have a unilateral contract. The other side has to want to talk too."

Welcomes Suggestions

The President's comments came about two hours after Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana proposed in a New York speech that Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi meet to explore peace for Viet Nam.

When asked for Johnson's reaction to Mansfield's suggestion, White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers said the President "welcomed any constructive suggestions from members of Congress, members of the Senate." Moyers then called attention to Johnson's comments on peace talks in the speech to the legislative leaders.

A State Department spokesman cautiously encouraged Mansfield's call for face-to-face discussions but expressed doubt Peking would agree.

Fights For 3 Billion

"We'll just wait and see," said press officer Robert J. McCloskey. But McCloskey reaffirmed that Rusk is ready "to go to Geneva tomorrow" to discuss peace with anyone from the Communist side.

In this rose garden speech, Johnson said the United States is not fighting in Viet Nam only for the 14 million people of that country. "We are fighting for almost three billion people who also want freedom and liberty. And we must continue to fight until men are convinced that it is better to talk than fight," he said.

The President said U.S. policy is designed to serve notice to the world that "gangsterism and aggression and force are not to be rewarded."

"We have what other people want. If they develop the power and the strength to take it, don't you think they won't try," he said.

Bolster U. N.

The legislators from 37 states, Guam and Puerto Rico earlier had endorsed Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

Later in the day, the President said his administration would strive to strengthen the United Nations' "capabilities for peaceful settlement in a crisis, and better means for resolving disputes before they reach the stage of crisis."

Without specifically mentioning Viet Nam, the President said in a message read at a New York dinner of the U.N. Association of the United States:

"The international community, working through the United Nations, should be able to deal with all forms of aggression, including indirect aggression and subversion."

Fronczaks Recover Son:

Say Orphanage Tot Theirs

CHICAGO (AP) — The mystery that enveloped the hospital kidnapping two years ago of 37-hour-old Paul Joseph Fronczak has been reopened with the adoption of a child by the parents.

The infant was taken from Mrs. Chester Fronczak's arms in Michael Reese Hospital April 27, 1964, by a woman posing as a nurse.

The woman, who said she was taking the infant for an examination, walked out of the hospital with the baby. They were never seen again.

The Fronczaks believe they have their son. He is a sandy-haired 2-year-old abandoned July 2 in Newark, N.J., and has been in an orphanage.

Neighbors said Mr. and Mrs. Fronczak have told them they are convinced the child is theirs. They said the lad has been playing in the Fronczak yard since last week.

"His name is Paul Joseph, the same as before," Fronczak, 35, a machinist, told reporters. But he declined to say more.

The FBI, which has been investigating the case, refused to comment.

Lt. John Cartan, who has led the Chicago police investigation, said he was aware the Fronczaks have had a boy in their home. He declined to elaborate. Mrs. Fronczak, of Chicago, is the former Dora Vulkan of Wells. Mrs. Joseph Bartol, Route 1, Gladstone, is her sister. Mrs. Bartol is a registered nurse at St. Francis Hospital.

THIS PICTURE of the Fronczaks was taken on Mrs. Fronczak's 29th birthday, six months after her son was taken. Mr. and Mrs. Chester Fronczak said they were unable to understand how "any human being can steal another's child."

Indian Paintings:

Ancient 'Art' Publicized

BY BOB BOELIO
(Motor News Staff Writer)

One hundred miles and fifteen hundred years separate two of man's wonders in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

The multimillion-dollar Straits of Mackinac Bridge is one of our latest marvels, while Michigan's long-ago past represented by the lesser-known, hitherto almost inaccessible, prehistoric Indian paintings on Burnt Bluff overlooking picturesque Big Bay De Noc.

The Indian paintings are reddish, strange-looking drawings etched on a limestone cliff about 20 feet above the beach.

Prof. Emerson F. Greenman, of the Museum of Anthropology, University of Michigan, who has made an intensive study of the paintings, suggests one drawing represents an adult man attached by an umbilical cord to a figure below which is either a spider or the sun.

By itself, he believes, it is a portrayal of the birth of a man. But its setting in a place of such beauty and mystery suggests that it was meant to depict the creation of the human race by the sun. It was not unusual for the Ojibways and Ottawas and other tribes of this comparatively cold climate to worship the sun, although some doubt exists that these tribes lived in this particular area.

Search Goes On
Another drawing is that of a man apparently floating through the air, with long legs and arms, such as a child might draw.

Asked if he was convinced of the authenticity and age of the paintings, Greenman replied quickly, "Absolutely."

Burnt Bluff is near the southern tip of Delta County's Garden Peninsula, about five miles south of Fayette State Park, site of a ghost town, well worth a long visit. Fayette is 18 miles south of the junction of US-2 and M-483. A black-top road goes within a few miles of Burnt Bluff, and the rest is good gravel road.

Archeologists from time to time converge on the area to probe for still more prehistoric Indian secrets. In the summer of 1965 a group led by an archeologist from Chicago's Natural History Museum explored the water under the cliffs in a search for Indian caves.

Fading Away
While Michigan has two prehistoric monuments, the Burnt Bluff Indian paintings are the only ones of their kind. The other prehistoric monuments is a series of rock carvings on a flat sandstone outcrop about 40 feet long near a Kent County (Grand Rapids) stream.

Both seem destined to remain in their present surroundings, however, archeologists point out that even if arrangements could be made, they could not be removed to the relative safety of a museum without violating the natural setting, an important part.

The paintings have survived quite well but continue to fade each year, and their survival is in doubt. The head of the human figure in the painting, for example, visible in 1925, has faded away. Greenman points out that the next 20 years will be more dangerous for the paintings than the last thousand for they are becoming better known.

Little is known about the origin of the Burnt Bluff Indian paintings, located in two places fairly high on limestone cliffs overlooking the water.

Water Was Higher
Since the prehistoric artist did not date his work, archeologists and geologists can only estimate the age of the paintings. They have good clues, however, and believe they are close. They point out that 3,000 years ago the cliffs here were under water, but after the retreat of the last glacier the land started to lift gradually. About 1,500 years ago the water was on a level which would have enabled the artist to work on the drawing from a canoe. With painstaking effort, he etched the design into the rock with unknown but once brilliant dyes.

Although known to the inhabitants of the area for years, it was Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president emeritus of the University of Michigan, who first directed attention of anthropologists to the paintings, according to Greenman.

Dr. Ruthven visited the site in the summer of 1925, found the paintings and made a quick drawing in order to get away before a threatening storm. His drawing and report were published subsequently by the university.

Dr. Ruthven and others who followed him to view the paintings did it the hard but only feasible way — by boat. The alternative was a tortuous walk for miles along a rock-strewn beach.

Breathtaking View
But in 1960, Henry and Ruth Lang, who have owned the property for about 25 years, made it easier to see the paintings. They installed a stairway to the beach. The charge to use it and view the paintings is 75 cents for adults and 25 cents for children under 12.

A little spirit of adventure is still a good asset for a visitor. Going down the 207 steps is easy. On the beach it is a quarter of a mile in either direction to see the paintings in two separate places, and it's still over loose limestone rocks of various shapes and sizes. Sturdy, comfortable shoes are recommended.

Besides the paintings, there are magnificent views of the big towering cliffs, wind-twisted cedars and blue-green water of the bay that drops off to depths up to 80 feet off the cliffs. Burnt Bluff is a continuation of the same rock strata as Niagara Falls. The rock is almost all fossil, and some nice specimens can be found along the beach.

The ascent is another matter, and we found it far more breathtaking than the scenery. But 10 landings on the way up help. Some have benches, and we plopped on almost every one. Thoughtfully, the Langs have installed a soft-drink stand at the top. And a quiet, well-kept picnic area is free.

Chicago's Riot Area Is Quiet

CHICAGO (AP) — Everything appeared quiet today in the Puerto Rican neighborhood on Chicago's Northwest Side where rioting erupted early this week.

Three hundred policemen remained on duty in the 16-block area 15 minutes from downtown Chicago. Taverns in the neighborhood were permitted to reopen.

The Chicago Commission on Human Relations announced a bilingual hearing to investigate the conflict between Puerto Ricans and police.

Retailers Plan Sale Promotion; Okay Billboard

A Midnight Madness sale will be the next city-wide promotion of the Retail Division of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, it was decided at a meeting held Thursday noon at the Stonehouse restaurant. Chamber Manager Walter Lewke conducted the meeting.

The division unanimously decided to place a billboard at the junction of U.S.-41 and the K. I. Sawyer access road advertising Escanaba as Upper Michigan's largest shopping center, just 45 minutes away.

Escanaba Days in May was reported generally successful. The retailers unanimously agreed to continue the promotion next year.

Lewke reported that pony rides and kiddie rides have been obtained for the July Sidewalk Day sale. Women's organizations who would like to have middle of the street bake sales or other display booths are invited to contact Dick Winters, 786-1573, or the Chamber office, 786-2192.

The retailers were advised that the Chamber had extended an invitation for the 1967 convention of World War I barracks to be held in Escanaba in 1967 in support of the bid of the local barracks. Escanaba was awarded the convention for next year. Lewke reported that the Chamber's Convention and Greeters Committee, Claude J. Tobin, had extended an invitation to the Upper Peninsula Association of American Legion Posts to hold their 1967 convention in Escanaba, supporting the bid of Cloverland Post No. 82, Elmer Bonifas, commander.

The convention is being held in Menominee this weekend and a delegation from Escanaba will personally extend an invitation.

The "Star Spangled Banner" was named as the national anthem by Congress on March 3, 1931.

Legislature Pushing For

Osteopathic Medical College

The Michigan Legislature faces a deadline next week before its session closing — scheduled for Thursday — on one of its most controversial issues in years.

The antagonists: The Legislature, backing the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, and the Michigan State Medical Society, the professional organization of the state's doctors of medicine and surgeons.

The issue: Shall the Legislature commit the State of Michigan to spend millions yearly on operation and maintenance of the College of Osteopathy which the osteopaths propose to build at Pontiac with $3 million of their own funds and with federal aid, and to be financed in its operations by the State? Michigan's present colleges of medicine are the University of Michigan and Wayne State University.

Another Vote

The osteopaths, through favors and friendships and expert lobbying, have established a strong position for their project with the Legislature. The bill to create an Osteopathic College Authority has passed the Senate and came within two votes of passing June 10 in the House, which will take another whack at passage next week.

Elmer Potter, former state senate leader and a Republican, has been active in the osteopaths' lobby. Rep. Einar Erlandsen (D-Escanaba), chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee which released the authority bill to the floor, said: "I am for it (the project) up to this point: I don't see any harm in getting it out and getting it aired. It will settle the point whether the Legislature can create a new school of medicine."

"It has been said that the State Board of Education (which has a committee studying Michigan medical education) has to recommend it before it can be started. (State Attorney General Frank Kelley said informally last October that the Legislature couldn't act on an osteopathic college without a recommendation from the State Board of Education, a new agency which controls public schooling in Michigan.)

Legislative Authority

"We took out a budget line item for a law school at Michigan State University and the Legislature's right was argued then. The Supreme Court will probably have to determine it (whether the Legislature, on its own initiative and bypassing the State Department of Education, can create a medical college.)

"I voted for the (Osteopathic College Authority) bill to get it out and answer the question. I lean toward the osteopaths. They are good people. I know a couple of them. I have been in surgical gown to their hospitals and seen them operate. I see nothing wrong with them. They are not bad people that we should keep out."

"We need more doctors and this is one way to get some. I think they (the osteopaths and the allopaths) can live together. It does not say in the act that we're starting a state school. And the osteopaths are going ahead and starting their own school at Pontiac anyway. They are just asking us to create state authority that would allow them to borrow funds. (Cost of a college plant has been estimated at from $50 to $60 million.)

MD's Image

"The attorney general said in an off-the-cuff opinion that it would violate the state constitution and the authority bill does commit the state financially. I don't see that the osteopaths and the MD's would compete; they both take the same basic science board test. The DO's manipulate."

"The MD's say that there should be an amalgamation of the MD's and the OD's, but they amalgamated in California and it hasn't turned out very good.

"With the image that the MD's have built for themselves, being against medicare and other social programs, the DO's have got a reputation for wanting to help people, so they don't want to amalgamate."

OD Leader Speaks

Dr. B. F. Dickinson, of Royal Oak, Mich., president of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, said: "The osteopathic school of medicine was founded shortly after the Civil War and was a reform school of medicine to improve the practice of medicine, obstetrics and surgery."

"Our basic philosophy is that cure of disease does not come from without the body, but from within. The normal condition of the body is health. One must not only treat the specific disease or organ involved, but the entire man and his environment. . . . The osteopathic profession uses all the methods of recognized therapy today, including medicines, drugs, surgery, manipulation and physical therapy. The profession places great emphasis on the neuro-muscular-skeletal system of the body which is the basic connection from the outside man to the inside man."

Dr. Dickinson said that already one third of the people of the state seek services of osteopathic physicians. "We have no intention to amalgamate with the allopathic physician (MD) in Michigan," said Dr. Dickinson. "Amalgamation would not add one physician in Michigan and would, conversely, deny citizens freedom of choice in medical treatment."

MSMS View

Dr. Harold H. Hiseck, chairman of the Council (governing body) of the Michigan State Medical Society, says: "By sheer legislative pressure a few key legislators have repeatedly tried to force the Osteopathic College Authority Bill (272) from committee after committee where it would otherwise have met its death."

"Today the osteopaths have passed their zenith. Their total number in the U. S. has actually declined in the past two years. Their percentage of the total physician population in Michigan has declined. Their number of schools has declined. Their belief in the teachings of Andrew Still, their founder, has declined and in its place has grown an imitation of orthodox medicine."

"They are permitted to practice medicine but they are second choice in communities in this state. The U. S. Armed Forces will take them, but the Army, Navy and Air Force haven't wanted them and they haven't volunteered for these forces. There is no logical reason for them to be a separate group. Their services to the people would be improved if they were not separated from the mainstream of medical progress and could take advantage of the great progress being made by the medical scientists of this nation."

"In Michigan they have been offered an opportunity to join the medical and to receive sufficient training to qualify them to practice in Michigan hospitals. To date they have refused, preferring to remain separate because many are afraid they will lose positions in practice which presently give them privileges they could not expect to have in the medical world."

Senior Members Honored Thursday At Bethany

Cloudbursts failed to dampen the spirit of good-fellowship and friendliness that prevailed at the Bethany Lutheran Church on Thursday afternoon when members of three generations joined to spend an afternoon especially dedicated to the senior members.

In the church parlors, filled to capacity, special tribute was given by Mrs. Ken Buckland, acting LCW president, to those who in the past were at the helm of the church activities. Now, having passed the responsibilities on to the next generation, they came to be feted and listen to the old Swedish hymns, instrumental music, readings and messages.

Mrs. F. O. Peterson, 94 years of age, was honored as the oldest member of the church. Mrs. Nels Ahlquist, also is 94. Mrs. C. P. Johnson received a remembrance as she was 89 on June 11. John Kallin, 84 years old, also received a special tribute. Recognition was also given Mr. and Mrs. Werner Olson who were married 80 years ago that afternoon.

A delicious smorgasbord was enjoyed following the program and a social hour was spent while old friendships were renewed and new ones made.

Aid To Osteopaths

The bell sounds for the last round of one of the session's great fights in the Michigan Legislature next week with a House vote on Senate Bill 272 to create a Michigan Osteopathic College Authority.

The bill passed the Senate and lacked two votes of passage in the House, where there'll be another try at it next week before the closing scheduled for Thursday.

The bill is not an appropriations bill, but it would commit the state to support a new college of osteopathic medicine and surgery which the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons proposes to build at Pontiac.

The osteopaths say in essence: Michigan needs more doctors. We're going to train more. We're going to put millions of our own money into this school and get millions from the federal government. We want millions from the state for operation and maintenance of the college each year.

This seems to make good sense to the Michigan Legislature despite Michigan State Medical Society opposition.

A key figure in the contest is Rep. Einar Erlandsen (D-Escanaba) chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which released the Osteopathic Authority bill to the floor. Erlandsen was committed to the osteopaths before the allopaths (doctors of medicine) got around to ask his opposition to the Pontiac college project.

And this seems a rather general situation. The osteopaths have done a thorough job of lobbying and friend-making in the Legislature. The doctors of medicine—with what seems to us to be the better reasoning of the two groups—are having their opposition rebuffed more because they are unpopular and reactionary than because they are incorrect.

"I lean toward the osteopaths," said Erlandsen, who has inspected their surgery and other services. "I think they (the osteopaths and the allopaths) can live together."

This is the proposal of the osteopaths. The basic consideration here is: Does public interest call for the state support of two systems of medical education? We have heard no suggestion on this point which is impressive.

Medical education is very expensive. It is, therefore, heavily subsidized in the public interest. Michigan needs to train more doctors. It has been proposed many times that the number of students at its two medical schools—University of Michigan and Wayne State University—be increased, and that a medical school be created at Michigan State University, which already has a start on one in its developing Institute of Human Medicine.

The offer of the osteopathic college as a means of meeting this need should have no appeal outside a context of integrated state medical education. The state attorney general has already stated in informal opinion that the Legislature would violate the state constitution if it passes a bill authorizing creation of a state-supported college of osteopathic medicine without the recommendation of the State Board of Education.

A three-member committee of the State Board of Education is studying the medical college program and Governor Romney has indicated he wants initial action by the State Board of Education.

The new assertiveness of the Michigan Legislature has one of its poorer expressions in this approach to the problem of educating more doctors. It has shown willingness, almost to the point of completing legislative action, to have the state spend millions of dollars yearly for an educational innovation which has been strongly criticized by spokesmen for the medical profession.

Part of the Legislature's admiration for the osteopaths has been earned by that group's change from a cultist branch of medicine which accented manipulation to restore deranged body mechanism, to a competent group of modern medical and surgical practitioners. This is commendable.

The osteopaths appear to have had an even greater success with their techniques to impress legislators. The OD's now reject the amalgamation proposed by the MDs, which has been effected in California. They have a dynamism that the older, more conservative Michigan State Medical Society lacks. But public interest rides with the posting of high standards of medical practice and forcing conformity. And this end is not served by dividing up the educational eggs.

If there's justification for state support for teaching of the osteopathic medicine, why have not the U-M and Wayne State medical schools been teaching it?

The Doctor Says: Heart Attack Is Broad Term

By Dr. Wayne G. Broadbent

Q — Our doctor prescribed pectoris, which is caused by a spasm of a coronary artery rather than an obstruction, and true coronary heart disease. Is Isordil a new medicine? Is it all right for my husband to drink beer or brandy when taking this drug?

A — Isordil (nitroglycerine) is relatively new. Like nitroglycerine, it dilates the coronary arteries and lowers the blood pressure. If the two drugs are taken together the combined lowering of the blood pressure might approach the shock level. Alcohol, a relaxant, would not be harmful if taken in moderation.

Q — Is myocardial infarction the same as myocarditis? Does a heart attack often recur?

A — Myocardial infarction is a term the pathologist uses to describe the damaged segment of heart muscle resulting from blocking a coronary artery (a true heart attack). Myocarditis is an inflammatory disease of the heart muscle resulting from an infection, such as rheumatic fever, diphtheria, typhus, influenza or viral pneumonia. In myocarditis the heart becomes enlarged and heart failure with waterlogging may result.

The term heart attack is often used to describe any sharp pain in the chest — especially angina

Health Insurance Scramble

Private Firms Hang On

By JIM NICHOLS
Associated Press Writer

On July 1, the federal government will grab most of the business of writing medical insurance for the nation's elderly citizens.

But a number of private companies which do business in Michigan are determined to hang on to what's left.

Parts of the federal Medicare program take effect on that date. One section pays part of the cost incurred by elderly hospital patients, and another, which is voluntary, would help old people meet doctor bills.

Of the underwriting firms contacted in an Associated Press survey, at least six indicated they have devised or are planning policies to go along with Medicare.

Spokesmen for other companies, mostly those with home offices outside Michigan, said they weren't sure whether their firms were planning to offer such policies.

The new private plan most closely tailored to the federal program is offered by Michigan Blue Cross - Blue Shield, which said it had mailed nearly 10,000 application blanks to elderly persons in the state.

This program, the company said, is designed to "fill gaps in Medicare."

The federal measure requires the hospital patient to pay the first $40 of his bill and an added $10 for each day of hospitalization after 60 days. The Blue Cross policy pays both.

It also will pay the full cost of hospitalization for the 91st through 120th day, the company said. The Medicare program only aids persons through 90 days in a hospital.

The Blues also would pay the $20 for diagnostic outpatient services and 20 percent of the balance of the bill. Medicare doesn't pay either. Under Medicare, a nursing home patient pays $5 a day after the 21st day. Blue Cross would pay that.

The voluntary health insurance provision of the federal program exempts the first $50 of doctor bills and also 20 percent of the rest. Blue Shield pay those charges for bed patients in hospitals or nursing homes.

Total cost of subscribing to the program, the company said, will be $5.36 per month. The firm said the Michigan Insurance Department is expected to approve the plan before July 1, when it is to take effect.

Other insurance firms are using different approaches. Bankers Life and Casualty Co. has come up with two policies inspired by Medicare, said the firm's Detroit branch manager, Jake Gollehon.

One pays the $40 hospitalization charge and the $10 a day after 60 days. It also meets part of the costs resulting from a hospital stay of longer than 90 days.

Q — What are the symptoms of arteriosclerotic heart disease? What can be done for it?

A — Arteriosclerotic heart disease is a misleading term in that there may be a great deal of hardening of the coronary arteries without any obstruction and hence without any symptoms. If obstruction occurs, the victim is seized with so severe a pain in the chest that he can't go on. He may become nauseated and break out in a cold sweat.

The immediate treatment is bed rest in a hospital and inhalation of pure oxygen. During convalescence the victim should read one of the many books about his condition. One of the best is "Heart Attack, New Hope, New Knowledge, New Life" by Prinzmetal and Winter (Simon and Schuster).

Nowadays, when a woman says she has nothing to wear, it's almost true.

In your first tennis match after the winter layoff, you may be courting disaster.

The other offers elderly subscribers $50 in cash for each week in the hospital, a $2,500 accidental death benefit and a $20 benefit for emergency visits to a hospital.

Cost of the plans depend on the policyholder's age. Gollehon said. The first would cost a 65-year-old $3 a month, increasing in cost to $4.50 at age 85. The second costs $5.33 if you're 65 and $9.22 if you're 85.

In return for $8 a month, Continental National Insurance Group will pay you $70 for each week you're confined in a hospital, and another $70 if you're there more than 21 days. If you want to pay $12.50 a month, they'll raise the $70 to $100.

Persons subscribing to that plan are eligible for another, which costs $6.50 a month and pays benefits for nursing home care, drugs and private nurses.

Elderly persons with Mutual of Omaha policies can keep them in effect — thus getting paid twice in case of hospitalization — said Virgil Adams, Mutual's Detroit district training manager.

That company also has a new plan costing $133.20 a year and paying $100 per week of hospitalization up to 26 weeks. Variations on this plan pay $50 or $150, depending on the premium.

Mutual also offers its current policyholders a replacement plan, providing cash payments of $10 or more per week in the hospital. Each weekly $10 costs $3.30 a year in premiums.

State Farm has never written health or accident policies in Michigan, said Detroit-area manager Harold Barr. But it plans to start this summer a "Medicash" program offering $15 per day of hospitalization. Rates and details haven't been worked out, Barr said.

A Detroit spokesman for Aetna Casualty and Surety Co. said his firm plans to announce a policy in mid-June designed for persons eligible for Medicare. He didn't elaborate.

Other Michigan insurers, however, indicated they had no current plans for insuring the over-65 group.

One agent put it this way: "If Uncle Sam is going to do it, it's next to impossible for the commercial companies to do it."

Ann Landers

Housewife Puzzled By Strange Customs

Dear Ann Landers: Recently my husband changed jobs. Now he is employed in an office which has some very strange customs.

Several secretaries, I am told, eat their lunch at their desks and then go out for what they call a lunch hour. They sometimes return as late as 3:00 P. M. and pass the word that they had to go to the bank, the doctor, the dentist, or shopping.

The men and women in the office call each other "Doll, Baby, Honey, Dear" and other pet names. They kiss one another when they meet on the street or at a party, or any place at all. If they are so friendly in public what do you think goes on in private? — JUST A DUMB HOUSEWIFE

Dear Dumb Housewife: Probably nothing — or they'd be more reserved in the presence of others.

I suspect the bearer of all these glad tidings, who happily reports the goings on at the office, is a bit of a trouble-maker. It is a fact that many office workers must do their shopping or banking and see doctors and dentists during their lunch hours, because it's the only time available.

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of my husband's has spent the last two months crying on my neck over a woman he had loved and lost. He begged me to help him get her back, and I agreed.

I didn't realize I had such persuasive powers but after a 20-minute conversation she said, "You are right, Jim is a wonderful person. I shouldn't have broken up with him. Please ask him to call me and we'll pick up where we left off."

When I told Jim of my success he said, "I don't want her now. She has caused me so much grief I could never trust her again." I almost went through the floor.

I told my husband and he was very unsympathetic. He said it served me right for getting involved in other people's affairs.

The woman has been calling to ask why she hasn't heard from Jim. I don't know what to say. After having told her that Jim is madly in love with her I can't bring myself to tell her he has suddenly changed his mind. She will think I am nuts.

Q — What commercial value is the wood of the holly tree?

A — Very hard, and having a close grain, it is valuable for musical instruments, furniture and interior decoration. The inner bark yields the sticky material called birdlime.

Dear Cupid: It's always a mistake to try to glue together the broken romances of friends. If THEY can't put the pieces together, forget it, Doll. Tell the woman the truth. She won't think you're nuts. She'll think he's nuts.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 14-year-old girl who would like some suggestions on what to talk about when I am dancing with a boy. I can't think of anything to say and I feel real stupid. Thanks for your help. — MUSIC WITHOUT WORDS

Dear Without: Good dancers don't talk — they just dance. When you see a couple conversing madly on the dance floor it's a safe bet that at least one of them is a very poor dancer.

MANISTIQUE

Junior High Building May Be Need In Merger

A building program at Manistique to accommodate junior high students would be necessary if the school consolidation proposal is approved July 25, Manistique School Supt. E. E. Wuehle said Wednesday night in a panel discussion in Hiawatha School.

Serving with him on the panel were Mrs. James Goudreau of Doyle Township and Rudy Lawrence of Germfask Township.

Townships would probably want the same type programs for their 7th and 8th grade as is offered in Manistique and present space would be inadequate, Wuehle said. It may not be possible to accept St. Francis seventh and eighth graders, he indicated.

The school presently provides home economics, industrial arts and science classes for St. Francis 7th and 8th grades. The Manistique district receives tuition for those who reside in townships but not for those who reside in the city, and this seems unfair, he said.

Bonded indebtedness of the townships would be retained by individual districts for three years, when a proposal can be submitted for a vote of the people on absorption of debts by the consolidated district.

Millage allocations, special levies, bringing township teachers' pay to the level of the city's, bus transportation, hot lunch, location of property which individual districts have purchased and other aspects were discussed.

Annexation and other alternatives available if the proposal does not pass also were considered. Under Public Act 289, school districts must offer kindergarten and all 12 grades in their programs. The proposed district would combine all township districts except Seney and Inwood with the city.

Solons Dodge Housing Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Judiciary subcommittee today ducked a showdown vote on the administration's proposed open-housing law and referred it to the full Judiciary Committee.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said changes in the bill reportedly suggested by Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to Senate Republican leaders without his knowledge kept the subcommittee from acting.

The Republicans in turn told Katzenbach the administration had better drop the controversial open-housing provision if it wants Congress to pass the civil rights bill which now includes the housing plan.

As proposed by the administration, the bill would prohibit discrimination on racial or religious grounds in the sale, rental or financing of all dwellings.

Celler criticized the attorney general for his discussions Wednesday, aimed at winning the support of Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., for the housing provision. "The subcommittee members had no knowledge of said proposed changes," said Celler, "and were considerably hampered in consideration thereof."

Celler denied the failure of the subcommittee to act on the controversial proposal indicated a lack of votes for it.

More people get more news from newspapers than from all other sources combined.

Practical Plan In Ranch

By ANDY LANG

This is not a big house (1555 square feet of habitable area), but it contains everything required by today's living standards.

There are three bedrooms, 2½ baths, a family room, a spacious laundry, generous

G-38 STATISTICS

Design G-38 has a living room, dining room, family room, kitchen, foyer, three bedrooms, 2½ baths, a laundry and pantry, a plenty of closet and storage space—with a habitable area of 1555 square feet. There also is a two-car garage, an optional terrace in the rear and a covered front entry. The plans include a basement. Over-all dimensions are 74' by 36' 5".

storage space and a two-car garage—all in addition to the usual living room, dining room and kitchen.

The exterior has been designed by architect Herman H. York as an honest expression of its practical plan layout. It is both impressive and in good taste without extraneous frills. A generous amount of brick is combined with wood shingles in proper proportion to provide a look of satisfying balance.

Although the fireplace in the family room is on a direct line from the front foyer, note how the family room itself is shielded from full view. Thus an immediate focal point of interest has been created without exposing the entire room. Sliding glass doors in this room lead to an optional terrace. Built-in bookshelves are another family-room feature.

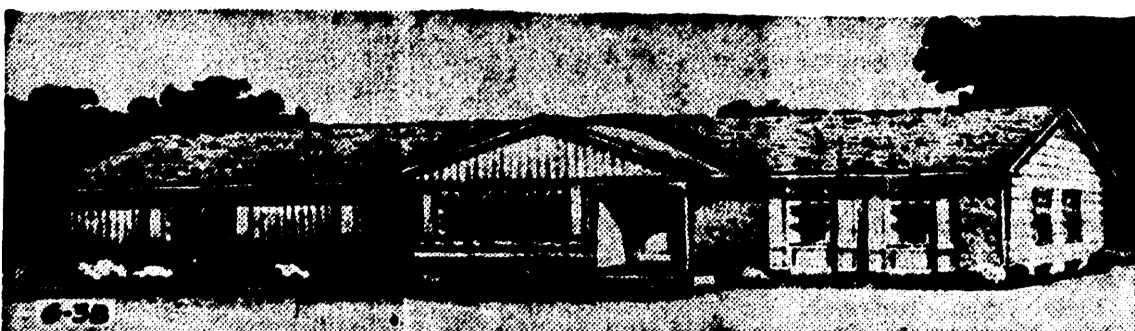

Adjacent to the family room is the kitchen, with an L-shaped arrangement of the modern appliances. A pass-through between the two rooms provides ease of serving and control.

On the other side of the kitchen is a sizable laundry area, with a mud closet, a wash room-toilet, a pantry and a rear entrance. This is a good arrangement to save the homeowner needless steps and to permit anyone playing outside or working in the garden to clean up before carrying dirt and dust throughout the house.

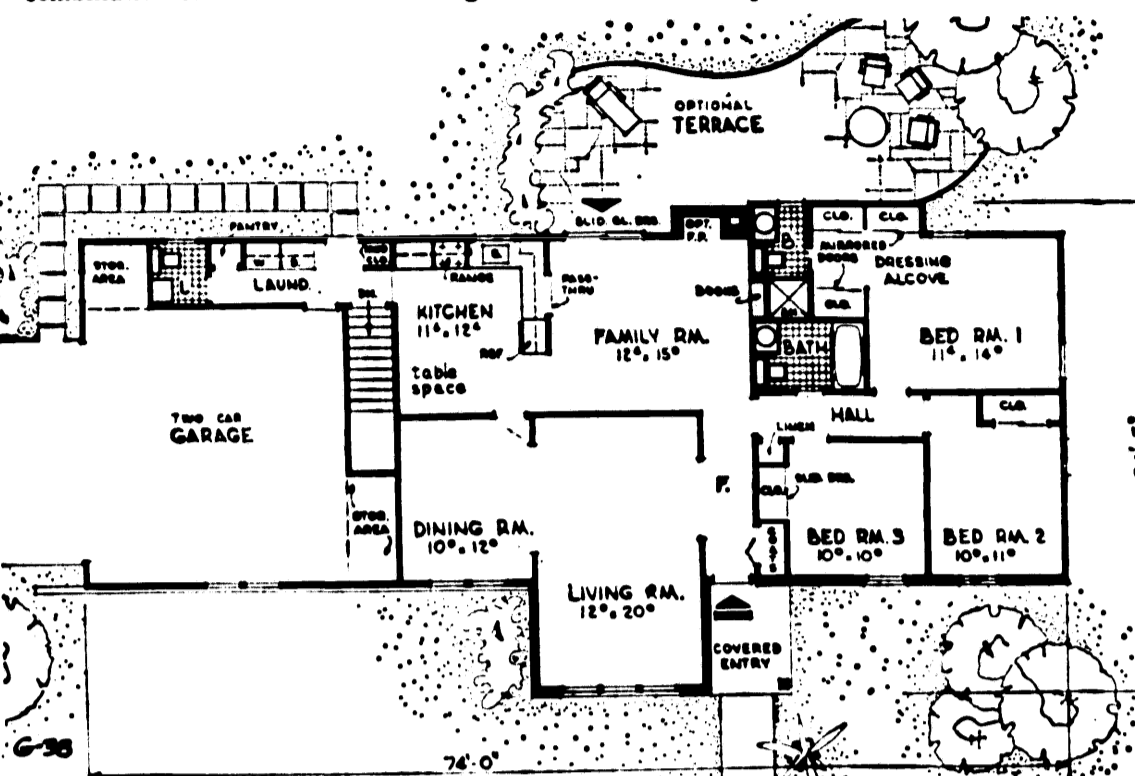

The two-car garage has two large storage compartments. While the advantage of the side entrance to the garage is the added attractiveness of the front elevation, the door can be located facing the front if adequate space is unavailable.

The living room is 20' in one direction and gets an appearance of even more spaciousness in the other because of its alignment with the dining room. The latter is properly next to the kitchen for convenient formal dining.

Six closets are in the three-bedroom wing. Those in the master bedroom have 12 linear feet of mirrored sliding doors, solving the often-present problem of sufficient mirrors for full-length viewing. One of the bathrooms in this area includes a stall shower, the other a tub. Placement of one bathroom at the front end of the bedroom hall makes it easily accessible BALANCED COMFORT: This well-proportioned three-bedroom ranch is designed to meet modern living requirements with maximum use of materials and minimum waste of space; combination of brick and wood shingles is in harmonious pattern.

FLOOR PLANS: Excellent relationship of rooms characterizes floor layout. Typical example is placement of kitchen—next to formal dining room; adjacent to family room with pass-through for snacks; and close to pantry and laundry area.

FAMILY ROOM: Likely to be the center of family activities, this inviting room looks out through sliding glass doors to a terrace at the rear of the house; note the pass-through at the left to the adjoining kitchen for convenient serving.

to the rest of the house. Architect York suggests that the trim and shutters be white to harmonize with the cedar shingles and brick. He also points out the importance of proper landscaping, which should be used to create an attractive setting for the house. Too often a long row of miscellaneous evergreens at the front foundation does nothing more than cover the foundation wall.

Design G-38 is solid in appearance, has an economical floor layout and provides all the advantages of modern living.

Hart Critical Of Car Makers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The auto industry has been criticized by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., for what he said were its early mistakes and adopting an unrealistic and even naive attitude toward safety.

This attitude, coupled with other things, Hart told a news conference, could have seriously threatened the Michigan economy. He said the industry's support for an interstate compact on auto safety was clearly unworkable.

But greatly to the industry's credit, he said, it came around to a more realistic position and adopted a position in favor of federal mandatory safety standards.

Hart said his job on the Senate Commerce Committee, which has been holding hearings on auto safety, is to see that safer automobiles are obtained "without legislating unemployment."

Congress, he said, should recognize that sufficient lead time is necessary for any basic struc-

Korea Veteran Wins A Fourth Purple Heart

CHU LAI, Viet Nam (AP)—A Marine sergeant who was wounded three times in the Korean War got his fourth Purple Heart — on a rocky hilltop in Viet Nam.

"It was the longest night of my life," said S. Sgt. Jimmie Howard, 36, of San Diego, Calif. Howard suffered a back wound while leading 17 other Marines in a last-man stand. They fought heroically against an attacking force of 250 Viet Cong in the early morning darkness.

Howard's small band of Leathernecks held out for five hours until Marine reinforcements arrived in helicopters and drove off the attackers.

From a hospital bed in Chu Lai where he was in satisfactory condition, Howard told how his small force nearly ran out of ammunition and resorted to knives, bayonets and rocks, to beat back the enemy.

Game Men Seek 35% Doe Kill Cut For 1966 Season

LANSING (AP) — Faced with a lowered deer population and an aroused public opinion, the Conservation Department and citizens' committees are recommending a reduced antlerless deer kill this year.

Department game biologists and citizens' committees admitted to the Conservation Commission Thursday that both factors figured in their 1966 recommendations which amount to a 35 per cent reduction in the antlerless deer harvest on a statewide basis.

The recommendations were made at an informal meeting of the commission and will be acted on formally at its July meeting at Higgins Lake.

Spring surveys showed a slight decrease in the size of the deer population, compared to a year ago, biologists said. But, they added in their prepared report, the unusual mildness of the past winter has raised the general health of the herd to such a level that the loss will be nearly offset by the start of the 1966 hunting season.

The citizens' committees, created this year after record number of hunters in 1965 failed to approach the near record deer kill of 1964, made recommendations that generally came close to those of the department professionals.

In the Upper Peninsula, the department recommends a 12.4 per cent reduction, from a 1965 antlerless quota of 18,685 to 16,355. The committee recommends a 14.3 per cent cut to 16,005.

The basic change in the U-P, said deer specialist David Arnold, is the closing of the Keweenaw Peninsula to antlerless hunting.

"We're only talking about 100 deer, and it's not worth getting a bloody nose over," he told the commission.

Quota Figures
The largest cut was in the northern Lower Peninsula, where the biologists recommended a 47.1 per cent cut in the harvest quota — from 44,719 last year to 23,777 this year. Permits should be cut 41.1 per cent from 148,322 to 87,310, they said.

The committees recommended a 55.5 per cent kill reduction — to 18,750 — and a 52.7 per cent cut in permits — to 70,135.

In the southern Lower Peninsula, the department is recommending a quota jump of 8.2 per cent, from 2,069 to 2,240. The commission can do one of four things with the recommendations. It can accept them, change the areas involved or call for an outright antlerless deer moratorium.

Huron Islands Lose Cormorants

The Huron Islands in Lake Superior about five miles off Marquette County near the mouth of the Big Huron River, have had cormorants nesting on these islands for many years. But a recent search of the islands revealed none. Commercial fishermen in the area last noted the birds about five years ago. They explained that this fish-eating bird perched on the stakes of their pond nets and ruined many of their trout caught in their nets. This dark colored, web-footed bird is used in eastern Asia to catch fish.

Plastic Igloos House School

DETROIT (AP) — Beginning next summer the suburban Rooper City and Country School will take on the appearance of a space age moon station or an Eskimo village.

A machine will begin spitting out eight huge igloos, ranging from 30 to 62 feet in diameter, made of styrofoam—the same feather-light plastic that is used for Christmas tree ornaments.

The school, which has a reputation for innovation, will use two of the domes to shelter indoor, all-weather playgrounds. Six smaller domes will provide classroom space. In the center of the 12 acre site, a conventional building will house service and utility functions.

The school, founded in 1941, is dedicated to educating gifted children.

The domes will be built by Dow Chemical Co. The complex was designed by nationally known architect Glen Paulsen. To qualify for admission, a child must have an IQ of 130 or better and be highly "creative."

Total construction time for the domes is expected to be about a week with the total cost about $250,000. The domes will accommodate 150 children in nursery school, kindergarten and first grade.

The machine is fed plastic material which it lays down in soft sheets according to a pre-determined diameter, without using molds or forms. The first sheet covers metal anchors embedded in a concrete base and successive sheets are laid on top of the first.

After doors and windows are cut, each finished dome is given a one-inch skin of concrete, inside and out. This seals the dome from weather and hard knocks.

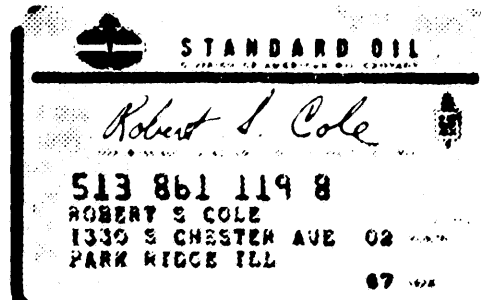

The domes won't burn and are impervious to weather, rot and termites, the designers say.

"But we really don't know about earthquakes," said Paulsen, perhaps thinking of the 150 creative youngsters.

Council Moves To Acquire More Off-Street Parking

Supporting the recommendations of its planning consultants and the Planning Commission, the City Council is moving toward acquisition of more off-street parking in Escanaba's downtown business district.

The first step was concurrence in the recommendations of the planners, and the second was authorization of appraisals of the proposed sites to determine estimated cost of acquisition in whole or in part.

The recommended sites are:

Area No. 1 — One-half block on 1st Ave. N. between 11th and 12th Sts.; and Area No. 2 — The remaining area on 1st Ave. N. in the 1200 block from the present parking lot southward.

For further identification of sites, Area No. 1 is referred to as the one-half block "back of the Fair Store" and Area No. 2 as the area "back of Ward's store."

The troublesome question of whether there will be participation of the merchants in the purchase of the proposed sites was left open by the Council.

The Council agreed that the parking areas are needed, and decided to have appraisers determine the estimated cost, and then discuss the question of merchant participation later.

Escanaba's planning consultants, Harland Bartholomew & Associates, have recommended that the city pay for the first Area No. 1 and acquire No. 2 with the cooperating participation of the merchants.

The Planning Commission, after meeting with a committee of merchants, recommended to the Council that the merchants be required to participate in financing both areas.

Advisory Group

Before moving to hire appraisers, the Council discussed the possibilities of financing acquisition not only with merchant cooperation, but of federal participation as well if an urban renewal program is undertaken in Escanaba.

In reply to questions, City Manager George Harvey said that under urban renewal the city would be reimbursed for 75 per cent of the cost of acquisition.

Fr. Andary Will Study Economics

The Rev. Thomas M. Andary, pastor of Holy Family Church, Flat Rock, has been named by the Michigan Catholic Conference to attend a Clergy Education Conference to be held at Boyne Highlands Resort, Harbor Springs, Mich., June 19-23.

The conference program will offer speakers from Central Michigan University, Purdue, Fordham, University of Michigan and Michigan State University and will cover such topics as economic values, automation, the U.S. economy, the international economy, banking and fiscal policy, distribution of income, credit, problems of agriculture, the future of labor, and labor's stake in the economy, and Michigan's economy.

quiring the parking lots.

Councilman George Rusch explained that it is agreed there is need for the parking lots, whether or not urban renewal is undertaken, and that such programs are accomplished step by step.

A local advisory committee should be named to keep the public informed and help coordinate the program, Rusch continued. After the areas are acquired—should urban renewal be undertaken—the services of one or more developers would be employed to develop the downtown shopping center.

Merchants Silent

There would be federal participation in such an urban renewal program, Rusch said.

Legionnaires To Attend U.P. Meeting

HERMANVILLE — A large delegation of legionnaires from the Leo Floriano American Legion Post led by Commander Larry Reid will attend the U. P. Convention to be held in Menominee this weekend.

The Legion post, meeting recently at the Camp Seven American Legion Club rooms, discussed the Memorial Day services which were highly successful. The past five post commanders will form the nominating committee for the new state officers for the coming year and Douglas LaCourse will attend Boys' State this month under the sponsorship of the post. The post membership is 106, which is six under the post all time high.

Plans for the July 2-3 celebration in the village were discussed and the post will join the William Anderson Sportsman's Club in sponsoring the annual affair. The two organizations have sponsored the celebration in the village for a number of years.

Commander Larry Reid presided at the meeting.

Ruppe Petitions Thrice The Need

HOUGHTON — Candidate for Congress Philip E. Ruppe reports that he has secured more than three times the number of signatures required to qualify him as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress from the 11th District.

"The response is overwhelming and is indicative of the strong organization and support that I will have carrying me to a November victory," said Ruppe.

DAV Convention

MUSKEGON (AP) — Approximately 1,000 delegates and guests, including former Govs. G. Mennen Williams and John Swainson, are expected in Muskegon beginning Friday for the annual state convention of the Disabled American Veterans. Williams and Swainson are among scheduled speakers. Elections will conclude the convention Sunday.

Seaway Labor Dispute Ended

OTTAWA (AP)—Prime Minister Lester Pearson announced Thursday night that the St. Lawrence Seaway labor dispute, which threatened to cut off waterborne commerce from the Atlantic to the Great Lakes, has been settled.

Pearson told the House of Commons the cabinet had approved a wage hike for the seaway's 1,200 Canadian employees "in the national interest."

Mediator Sen. Norman MacKenzie said the settlement called for a 20 per cent wage hike retroactive to Jan. 1, 1966 with another 10 per cent next Jan. 1. He said the seaway would take over payment of all welfare programs, formerly split with the employees.

Canadian workers had demanded an increase to $3.57 an hour to bring Canadian wages up to the level paid on the American side of the seaway. They had averaged $2.36 an hour.

Post Candidate

Woodrow W. Trudell, Hermansville, has announced that he is a candidate for commander of the Upper Peninsula American Legion Posts. The convention convenes this weekend in Menominee.

Trudell held the post of Legion commander for two years and during that time saw membership in the Floriano post hit 100 for the first time (104) and 114 in his second term. He has held the post of finance officer the past two years.

Trudell is former commander of the Menominee County Council of Legion Posts.

At the present time he is third vice commander of the U. P. Assn. of Legion Posts.

The improved weather last weekend brought a number of visitors and tourists to the Arthur Schaefer Roadside Park, west of Hermansville. The Menominee County Road Commission has cut the grass and sprayed the area and the park is an excellent attraction for visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dani and Kenneth Schultz spent the weekend in Detroit.

Seven Satellite Signals Working

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Tracking stations today began a long series of tests with the first seven satellites in the military's satellite communication (SATCOM) network.

After more than six hours of shifting through space, the seven communications satellites sprung free from their Titan 3 rocket late Thursday.

They are orbiting 21,000 miles above the equator.

Shortly after the seven communications satellites were kicked into orbit, army officials said signals had been successfully received through each one from SATCOM stations.

Although officially scheduled for nine months of research, some of the military satellites could be put into operation in a few weeks to significantly improve communications between Washington and Viet Nam.

Al Mengert Leads Open

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Al Mengert, a club pro from Tacoma, Wash., who grabbed the first-round lead in the U.S. Open Golf Tournament, says mental condition is all-important for the darkhorses.

"A fellow like me, a club pro, has to lack a mental block," Mengert said after carving out a three-under-par 67 Thursday.

"A club pro only plays about three times a week. The guys on the tour play all the time and you may figure that gives them an advantage. So you have to get geared up mentally. You have to build your confidence."

It also gave him a one-stroke lead over Gene Littler and Don Massengale, and a two-stroke margin over Billy Casper. He toured the 6,719 yards of the par 70 Olympic Country Club course without suffering a bogey. He had three birds.

So his mental condition — so far as golf is concerned — seemed fine.

"I'm a family man," he said. "I don't like the tour. I like tournaments, but not the tour. I can't take that day to day grind."

He has played in nine Masters and is in his seventh open. This, of course, is his best showing.

Littler, the 1961 Open champion, and Massengale managed to take two strokes off par and Billy Casper was one under.

Grouped at par 70 are Phil Rodgers, Doug Sanders, San Francisco amateur John Miller and Australian Kel Nagle, who lost the 1965 Open title to Gary Player in a playoff.

At 71 were PGA champ Dave Marr, Masters champ Jack Nicklaus, Tony Lema, Arnold Palmer, Bob Goaly, Tom Niepoorte and Wes Ellis Jr. Four-time champion Ben Hogan, who received a special invitation to the tournament, was one of 10 at 72.

The field will be trimmed to the low 60 and ties after today's second round. The final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by ABC-TV.

Weekly Hockey TV Is Likely

MONTREAL (AP) — Weekly televising of National Hockey League games in the United States is a distinct possibility now that the circuit has put its TV package on paper.

The proposed package, which includes 14 regular season games plus at least three playoff games, was approved by the NHL Board of Governors Thursday when the league ended its annual summer meetings.

The proposal will be submitted to the National Broadcasting Co. which last season televised coast-to-coast for the first time four playoff games.

Girls Softball

State Bank took sole possession of first place in the Girls Softball League race by downing Lombardi's, 6-1. Betty Thorsen hurled the Bank team to its fifth straight victory with a three hitter, fanning nine.

Connie Verhamme was the loser. State Bank will play Escanaba Machine Monday at Gladstone.

Big Boy edged the Gladstone Merchants, 17-16. Broman, winning pitcher, also contributed two triples.

Backed By 20 Hit Attack

McLain Posts 10th Victory For Tigers

BOSTON (AP) — Denny McLain, miffed at not getting the Tigers' opening day assignment, may have to settle for the starting role in next month's All-star game.

McLain, backed by a 20-hit attack and six runs batted in by Willie Horton, breezed past the Boston Red Sox, 10-4, Thursday to become the first American League pitcher to win 10 games this year. He has lost three.

"I'd settle for this many more victories before the All-Star game," McLain said recently while holding up for balls—Souvenirs of earlier conquests. He needs just two more victories to reach that goal.

Each of the Tiger starters collected at least one hit and scored a run as the Tigers put things pretty much out of reach by scoring seven runs in the first three innings.

Al Kalline, who collected his 2,000th career hit Wednesday night, went right to work on the next 1,000. He and Jim Northrup each collected four hits to pace the attack.

Horton knocked in half his runs with a three-run homer in the fourth inning. Dick McAuliffe, Bill Freehan and Gates Brown also homered for the Tigers.

Rico Petrocelli and George Scott homered for the Red Sox who got nine hits off McLain. Kalline's 4-for-4 effort upped his batting average to .373, while Northrup, who had one more official time at bat, jumped 19 points to 285.

Roland Sheldon, who beat the Tigers twice while pitching for Kansas City last year, lasted but two innings in his first start since being traded to the Red Sox.

McAuliffe greeted him with his homer and the Tigers added another run in the first inning on doubles by Kalline and Northrup.

McAuliffe doubled home Ray Oyler—who reached based on a bunt single—in the second, and the Tigers added four more in the third for their biggest inning.

Horton's single sent home the first two runs in the inning and the others scored on a bases-loaded walk to McLain and a ground out by McAuliffe.

The Tigers scored at least one run in every inning but the sixth.

Petrocelli hit his homer in the third inning and Scott got his homer in the third inning and Scott got his two-run shot in the eighth. The other Boston run, in the sixth, was unearned.

Earl Wilson was Acting Manager Bob Swift's choice to open a three-game weekend series against the Yankees tonight. Mel Sotolmyre is slated to start for New York.

Smith Matches Century Record In NCAA Meet

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—San Jose State's Tommie Smith, looming as the world's all-time fastest human, and Texas A&M's Randy Matson, the world's best shot putter, get down to cases in the 45th NCAA track and field meet today.

In preliminary competition Thursday at Indiana University, Smith officially matched the NCAA 100-yard record of 9.3 and unofficially equalled the world 220-yard mark of 20.2, while Matson easily set an NCAA shot put mark of 65-6 1/4 on one of his two qualifying tosses.

The meet tempo picks up today in another twilight session with six finals. Included are an expected hot 100-yard showdown between Smith and defending champion Charlie Greene of Nebraska, and the shot put in which Matson should improve on his NCAA record.

Thursday's only final was the six-mile run, captured by world co-record holder, Washington State's Gerry Lindgren, in the modest time of 28:07. This was far below the current world record of 27:11.6 which Lindgren shares with Billy Mills.

Today's program also includes qualifying in the discus and 440-yard relay which further unveils the talents of Smith—an anchor man on San Jose State's baton quartet—and Matson, aiming at the NCAA's 13-year-old platter record.

Smith also performs today in the broad jump finals after posting the third best qualifying distance of 24-4 1/2 Thursday.

In team competition, favored UCLA got off to a good start in seeking to dethrone co-champions Southern California and Oregon. The Uclans picked up eight points.

Today's feature event is the 100-yard showdown between Smith and Greene after each qualified Thursday at 9.3, equalling the NCAA record.

Detroit Inks Michigan Ace

DETROIT AP — University of Michigan pitching ace Bob Reed has signed a bonus contract with the Detroit Tigers' Montgomery club of the Southern League, the Tigers announced today.

Reed, a 21-year-old right-hander, posted a 14-7 record in two seasons with the Wolverines. He tied the Big Ten record for victories this year with six and the U-M team mark with nine.

Reed, selected by the Tigers in the special phase of the recent Triple A free-agent draft, will report to Montgomery Monday, the Tigers said.

Richert Needs Aid In One-Hit Mound Decision

Pete Richert tried hard. In fact, he tried so hard he almost didn't enter the letter he prizes so much—the W for win.

Earlier this season, after striking out seven straight batters to tie an American League record but losing the game 4-0 to Detroit Richert said:

"It don't mean a thing if you don't get the big W. You've got to get the win."

The Washington southpaw got the big W Thursday night in the Senators' 2-1 victory over league-leading Baltimore, but despite allowing only one hit, he needed ninth inning help to get it.

Richert, touched by Brooks Robinson for a lead-off single in the second when Baltimore scored an unearned run, was sailing along until he lost his control in the ninth.

He walked the first two batters in the ninth — Bob Johnson and Frank Robinson — before Ron Kline came in to pitch out of the jam.

"I don't know what happened," said Richert, who now has a 7-6 record. "I guess I was just trying too hard." Up to the first walk in the ninth he had retired 19 straight Orioles, who had a four-game winning streak snapped.

Besides good pitching there was another big reason behind the Senators' victory — 6-foot-7 Frank Howard. He singled home both Washington runs in the third.

In other American League games, the Chicago White Sox took a doubleheader from Kansas City 6-4 and 5-2. Detroit smashed Boston 16-4. The New York Yankees edged Cleveland 7-6 and California beat Minnesota 7-2.

Tom McCraw was the big gun for the White Sox. He tripled in his only official at-bat and scored three runs in their 6-4 first game victory and drove in all of their runs with a grand slam homer and a bases empty blast in the 5-2 nightcap triumph.

Detroit's Denny McLain, the American League's winningest pitcher, breezed to his 10th victory against three losses behind the hitting of Willie Horton, Al Kaline and Jim Northrup in the rout of Boston.

Horton drove in six runs, including three with a home run. Kaline and Northrup each got four hits.

The Yankees got a two-run

Felipe Slams Solo Homeruns

ATLANTA (AP) — Felipe Alou of the Atlanta Braves has hit 14 home runs this season — and produced only 14 runs with the blasts.

Each of the homers by Alou was a solo shot, including his 14th Thursday night against the New York Mets.

Golfers Speed Play In Open

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The speed-up of play in the National Open Golf Championship Thursday cut more than an hour off the average time for the 18-hole first round.

The last threesome toured the Olympic Course in four hours, 15 minutes compared with five hours, 27 minutes last year at Bellerive in St. Louis. Under the speed-up players must putt out continuously and can clean the ball only once on a green, that before the first putt.

Yesterday's Stars

BATTING — Tom McCraw, Chicago White Sox, scored three runs in the first game and drove in all of his team's runs in the nightcap with a grand slam homer and a bases empty shot in doubleheader sweep of Kansas City.

PITCHING — Pete Richert, Washington, allowed only one hit and retired 19 straight batters before walking two men in ninth and being relieved in Senators' 2-1 victory over Baltimore.

The Yankees got a two-run

Comedy Team In Amusing TV Bill

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — Dan Rowan and Dick Martin, a comedy team, took over Dean Martin's easy-going variety hour Thursday night and apparently will turn it into a free-wheeling NBC show for the summer months.

Rowan and Martin are an urbane and attractive pair who somehow always make this viewer think they are going to be — any minute now — funnier than they actually turn out to be. But they are pleasant and amusing, and they have some vital assistance in Dom de Quise, who is most effective in sketches.

They have some attractive young talent in the show. There is a striking young singer named Lanie Kazan who looks a lot like Barbra Streisand. And a very pretty very young singer, Julie Rolin, with a fine soprano voice.

One of the gimmicks of the show is its informality. The actors themselves shove the scenery and props into position. A regular feature will be an "improvisation," when the three comedians and a guest — Thursday night it was Tom Smothers — ad lib their way through a subject picked on the spur of the moment.

In Service

Marine Private Robert E. Erickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sig Erickson of 1126 N. 16th St., Escanaba has completed individual combat training at Camp Pendleton, Calif. The four-week course included over 200 hours of instruction under simulated combat conditions, covering squad tactics, guerrilla warfare, day and night combat, patrolling and the use of infantry weapons. Leathernecks bound for the Pacific will receive more training when they report to the Staging Battalion at Camp Pendleton. This training will emphasize jungle warfare, patrolling and civic action based on experience gained in Viet Nam.

The subject Thursday night was psychiatry and, without anyone telling a single psychiatrist joke, the bit built up amusingly. But it could just as easily turn into a resounding bomb.

At the same time on ABC, a documentary was encountering slow going making a case for extra sensory perception.

"The Baffling World of ESP" was earnest about the subject, ran into a real stone wall because it turned out to be a subject much easier to discuss than to illustrate.

Result was that it was largely a talk show with parapsychologists, psychologists, physicists and even mediums discussing such subjects as telepathy and empathy and dreams.

Scholarship Try

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Mark Steigenga, 16, a student at East Christian High School in Grand Rapids, joins 39 other teenagers Saturday in Baltimore, Md., in competition for a $1,000 scholarship in the international oratorical contest sponsored by Optimist International.

There were tantalizing bits, too. One was a film purporting to show a British medium getting "in touch" with the deceased father of a woman he had never met before. Another showed experiments in a Brooklyn hospital involving thought projection and dreams.

The documentary, in general, suffered from an excess of talk and what was really a lack of visual documentation.

Recommended weekend viewing: Tonight — Wayne and Schuster Show, CBS, 10-11 EDT, first of a summer series recalling great comedy performances starting with Hope and Crosby in their "road" pictures.

Sunday — "Sportsman's Holiday," NBC, 5:30-6 p.m., premier of a summer series of hunting and fishing shows; "Two Weeks on the Moon," CBS, 6-7, resume with special illustrations, of the findings of Surveyor 1.

MR. AND MRS. Gregory Thompson help Ferris State College at Big Rapids, Mich., keep its commencement a family affair. Both School of Pharmacy graduates will work for the same chain of drug stores in Midland. (AP Wirephoto)

Urban Problem Probe Planned

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney is creating a special commission to deal with the problems of Michigan's rapidly expanding urban areas.

The findings of the commission on urban problems could result in the creation of a new major department of local and urban affairs, Romney said at a news conference Wednesday.

The responsibilities of the special commission will include: —Analyzing the trends, conditions, unmet needs and problems affecting local units of government in Michigan's rapidly expanding urban areas; —Defining the complementary roles of the state and local units with respect to urban problems to maximize results and avoid unnecessary duplication of effort and cost; —Developing short-range policies to assist state government in meeting urban problems.

The 14- to 20-member commission will be asked to produce a preliminary report by late November — "in time for action in the next session of the legislature," Romney said.

The members have not been appointed yet, but will include elected officials, leading citizens and academicians selected on a statewide basis, he said.

The state must help solve the problems faced by the local governments it has created, he said.

Dominican Head

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Sister Mary Aquinas Weber, O.P., is new mother-general of the 18th General Chapter of the Dominican Sisters of the Congregation of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart at Marywood Academy in Grand Rapids. She was elected at the chapter's conference which concluded Wednesday and succeeds Mother Mary Victor Flannery who had served the past 18 years. Members of the chapter serve schools throughout Michigan.

But how many heavyweights can you name with Automatic Level Control? (Great for distortion-free party and group conversation recordings.) 3 1/4 and 1 1/2 IPS. Up to 5" tape reels.
